In today's challenging healthcare environment, Claxton-Hepburn Medical Center, a progressive, non-profit healthcare center, remains dedicated to high quality healthcare. The last decade has seen significant growth with the recruitment of additional physicians in existing and new specialties, the constant upgrade of equipment and the addition of many new services at the Medical Center.

Over the last decade, Claxton-Hepburn has transformed itself into a first-class healthcare facility. In 2008, the Medical Center completed an $8 million expansion project that included an expanded radiology department, an improved and expanded obstetrics unit, an ambulatory surgical unit and other efficiencies to greatly enhance patient care services and environment.

The campus includes the main hospital, the Richard E. Winter Cancer Treatment Center and the Dr. Ravinder N. Agarwal Renal Center. One of the newest services, located off campus, is the Wound Healing Center, providing specialized care in wound management, including hyperbaric oxygen therapy.

PHYSICIAN SUPPORT SERVICES

The St. Lawrence Health Alliance (SLHA) was formed by the Medical Center in 1994. SLHA serves as a Management Services Organization (MSO), providing practice management and office services to area physicians.

A medical office building provides the setting for an Independent Physician Center (IPC) within SLHA consisting of practitioners working cooperatively to maximize efficiencies in a cost effective manner to provide quality patient care. Those physicians remain independent in all other aspects of their practice, but benefit from the advantage afforded them through the MSO.

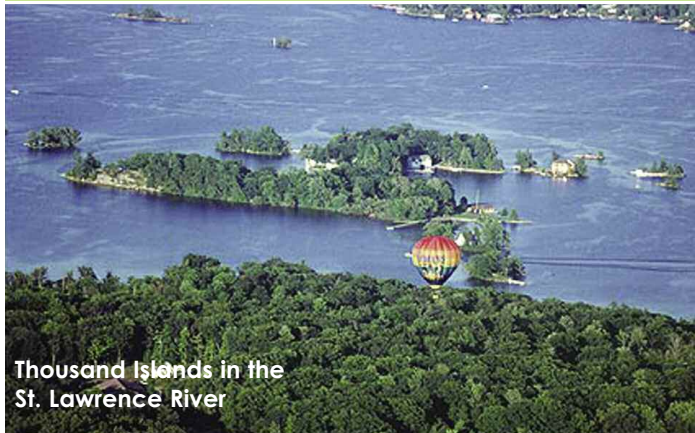

SLHA's menu of services includes group purchasing, billing, staffing, receivables management, practice consulting, and more. SLHA allows physicians to spend more time with patients and less time with the business aspect of running a practice.
